

Are You "Hollywood Ready?"...

Hi, Melanie Alexander here, and I've just finished watching another episode of my favourite TV show "American Idol".

You know the one.

Where ordinary Americans get plucked from obscurity and turned into stars almost overnight.

Aspiring singers give everything they've got for a chance of achieving a recording contract and a shot at wealth and fame.

At the first stage of auditions the panel of judges give their verdict on each performance and the lucky contestants that are good enough to get through are handed a golden ticket and told...

"You're going to Hollywood!"

Now here's where the magic happens...

At the Hollywood bootcamp the elite vocal coaches get to work on each contestant.

With access to the right coaching the hopefuls are transformed into real performers capable of giving a truly polished performance.

You'd think they had been performing their whole life!

It's amazing considering the fact that many of the contestants have never even sung in front of an audience before.

Now they're on national TV performing in front of an audience of millions!

What a rush that must be, right?

Now let me ask you...

Do you have dreams of becoming a successful singer?

Would you like access to the same level of coaching they have on the show?

Well here it is...
